Standards of Presence

I commit to MY TALENTS

By using what's in my head through my hands, I achieve what's in my heart. It takes courage to move forward with some ideas and those are usually the ones that are most important to do.

I commit to TAKING CONSISTENT IMPERFECT ACTION

Consistency is my greatest asset as an entrepreneur. My journey involves testing and learning ... learning and testing. It will take many different actions to get to the activity that will put me on the path to success that is right for me. But I will ALWAYS KEEP MOVING FORWARD. Imperfectly, and consistently.

I commit to EMBRACING FLEXIBILITY

Stuff comes up. I may get sidetracked, derailed, frustrated. I know that and expect the unexpected. It doesn't take me away from my purpose, it's just a learning curve. I KEEP MOVING FORWARD, even if it's a tiny step at a time.

I commit to GO BEYOND MY COMFORT ZONE

My current comfort zone is not where I create impact or make money. I will do things I've never done before to get results I've never gotten before. Each level of success I reach just leads to the next boundary of my comfort zone.

I commit to HAVING THE MINDSET OF A SCIENTIST

Everything in life is a bit of an experiment. Building a business is about trying something, seeing what happens, then finding a way to make it better. It's not personal, it's an experiment.

I commit to FOCUS

Life is full of intriguing opportunities. Checking out many attractive options is not what will lead me to success. I pick an approach and see it through to give myself the best chance to succeed. I also commit to FOCUS ON WHAT'S WORKING. When I think about things that aren't going well, in my personal life and in my business, my focus is taken away from what matters. What I focus on expands!

I follow these standards to grow personally, build professionally and adopt the mindset and behaviours of success
